The US taken over by The Storm

Montreal (August 30, 2010) - Delphis Films is proud to announce the enormous success of its film The Storm during the Stony Brooks Festival in NY, USA.

Not only did the film was awarded the 2010 Outstanding Achievement in Filmmaking by the festival, but it also got rave reviews and a standing ovation from the public!

“If ever there was a foreign film that deserves the widest possible American audience, this is it. Superbly acted and directed "The Storm" is a towering creative achievement. Moreover, its universal message of human determination to overcome the ravages of nature - especially the power of coastal storms amid the global rise of sea level - is a message for our time,” Steve Englebright, Member of Assembly of New York State.

The film has already been sold to a couple of territories including France, Japan, Russia, Taiwan and Malaysia. Several US distributors have shown initial interest.

The Storm depicts a human drama that took place during the Great Flood that cost the lives of almost 2,000 people and 72,000 more homeless in the Netherlands in 1953, the biggest natural disaster ever happened in the Dutch contemporary history. A young woman loses her infant in the cold waters and is determined to find him back at all costs. The film was released in the Netherlands in 2009 and ranked #2 domestic film at the box office.
